A TRIBUTE.

BY MOLLIE M'C.

Over them weep,
And soft vigil keep,
Silent they lie—
Ah! not all of life;
We live in the strife,
Nor of death we die.

Sweet flowers stray,
Over kindred clay,
Love strong in death—
What is like thee,
Or purer can be,
Outlasting the breath.

Buds at their head,
Fair as the dead,
Gleamed in the light—
A wrath lay entwined,
And shimmered and shined,
Round her name bright.

Fond hands had striven,
Nor soon would have given
E'en death his due—
When a voice seemed to say
I have walked the dark way,
To lead her through.

The bud and the flower,
Both fell in the shower,
Gathered above—
And though death may win
His hand cold and thin,
But sealed their love.

Strong, strong, is thy woe
Oh! husband we know,
Deep as the grave—
Death comes no more
When we reach the blest shore,
Bright waters lave.

Oh! mother love fraught,
With the lesson we're taught,
Death not so strong,
This, this, tells the lenght,
The depth, and the strength,
Heart yearning long.

Over them weep,
And soft vigil keep,
Silent they lie—
Unbroken her rest,
Her babe on her breast,
Dreams not harm nigh.

Seraphs might bend
O'er their sweet tragic end
Wafting a tear—
O'er picture so fair
Our deep grief to share,
Sigh o'er their bier.

"Tailings" of a Note Book.

We take the following from a letter to the Sacramento Daily Bee, as illustrative of Western life, but more particularly to gratify our friend (and everybody's friend, as well) Bob Stewart, who is a conspicuous character in the "Tailings:"

EDITORS BEE: * * * * Talking of dogs, calls to mind Rob Stewart's dog, "Keno." Captain Bob is the C. P. R. R. Co's baggage master at Promontory, and here was "Keno's" field of usefulness. He was the pride of his owner's heart—the best cayote dog in all that region. "Big money" had time and again been offered and refused for him. Bob would bet high on Keno—not on the game, you know, but on its game name sake. He used to tell of that other dog, the chase between which and the wolf was "nip and tuck—the dog a little ahead," never failing to add that Keno was not that sort of a dog—not much! Are you, Keno? he would ask, and thereupon that invaluable animal would start to burrowing in the hard soil with wonderful energy and zeal or fiercely worry any old boots or clothes or other dead objects within reach.—Bob awakening to the truth of the matter was sudden, cruel. Looking forth from his caboose car soon after day-light one morning, to his great mortification he saw Keno traveling into camp at a very rapid rate, and not far behind was a cayote which fearing to urge the pursuit farther, turned round and walked leisurely off. Bob now came to the door, but did not "let on" that he had seen anything out of the way. Keno glanced inquiringly into his master's face, and seeing him yawning and rubbing his eyes, took it for granted that he had not witnessed his ignominious retreat.—Keno, too, yawned and stretched as if he had just awakened from a sound sleep. Bob pointed to the cayote, and Keno wagged his tail and capered—he could see nothing but his beloved master. Finally when he could no longer ignore the matter, and when the cayote had got a good start and was quickening his pace, Keno suddenly seemed to comprehend his master's meaning, and affecting surprise and delight at the discovery of the retreating cayote, started off in pursuit, rapidly at first, and then more moderately, as if husbanding his strength and wind for the brush. All at once the cayote stopped, squatted on his haunches, and took a deliberate view of the situation. Act and attitude were alike expressive of utter contempt. This the other must have felt, but was too prudent a dog to give way to his feelings. Instantly Keno seemed to lose sight and scent, and with nose to the ground went searching for the trail right and left, forward and backward—but rather more backward than forward. By and by, the cayote moved leisurely on, and Keno was soon again in mild pursuit. This proceeding was repeated again and again, until both crossed a slight ridge and were hidden from view. The moment Keno found himself out of his master's sight he evidently changed his course and went in an opposite direction to that which the cayote was following. Soon after, Bob saw the form of the latter relieved against the light covering of now fallen snow, jogging quietly along a hill side a mile or more away; and in the course of events Keno made his appearance at a point far to the right of that where last seen, and came slowly but dignifiedly into camp, exhibiting every sign of fatigue and exhaustion after the hot pursuit, and fierce struggle, but intimating by a knowing look and wag of the tail that he had essentially "settled the hash" of that individual coyote. Bob, a sadder, but a wiser man, patted and welcomed him as usual. But this revelation shed a flood of light that made clear to him things that had hitherto been involved in mystery and doubt. Venison, rabbits, etc, had frequently disappeared from his very door, at the side of which he was wont to hang over-night the materials for the morrow's breakfast and dinner, relying for their safety on the vigilance of the faithful guardian of the camp. Finally he came to suspect Keno! He could doubt his integrity; but his prowess—never! Well, well, thought Bob, suppose he does once in a while nip a rabbit or a venison steak, what harm? He gets cold and hungry in watching all night; and he earns it. But at last these once-in-a-while became altogether too frequent—of nightly occurrence. Keno was carrying the matter too far—presuming on good nature. Bob had about made up his mind on the course to be pursued in the premises. He would watch—catch him in the act—give him a blessed good licking—and then present him as a token of affectionate regard to a beloved friend, in a neighboring camp, who had often expressed a desire to be the possessor of such a prize. Indeed, it was for this very purpose that Bob was so early astir on the morning of the startling discovery mentioned. He knew now who were the thieves—knew that the cayotes enjoyed the unchallenged freedom of the camp, every night, while its trusted sentinel crouched and trembled and feared even to whimper, lest he should be pounced upon and eaten; as they had a taste of him and evidently relished the morsel. For Bob now saw plainly that that was what had become of the three and a half inches off the end of Keno's tail—which amount he was found to be short one day on coming into camp. Keno never opened his lips about this matter. For a few days he wore that appendage carefully concealed between his legs, fondly fancying that the curtailment was not noticed generally or particularly. "And why, after finding him such an arrant coward, such a base hypocrite, is he still in such good favor with you, Captain?"—"Well," replied Bob, laughing and shaking all over, "I like the fellow for his cool effrontery, his immense 'cheek,' his powers of make believe; like him for the thoroughness of his humbug, and the very large per centage of human nature generally which he manifests." This very remarkable dog was of no particular breed. Indeed, particularly speaking, of no breed whatever. His genealogy is brief and clear as it is peculiar and original. The Captain "raised" him by paying a chap five dollars in coin to steal him from an emigrant train. This fact, of itself is a touchingly suggestive commentary on the immaculate honesty of the mountain men in the pre-railroad age, that is the times just anterior to the immediate connection of the C. P. and the U. P. iron—the positive and negative "poles" which were to establish the full "circuit" of commerce, enterprise, and all that, and drive all such simple notions of life and business to the wall. Then, men it seems, had actually to be bired to steal. Now, that railroad communication is complete, and commercial enterprise is the order of the day, stealing is conducted at a very large discount on the rates named. Keno was stolen! Yes, stolen! Stolen at par! Probably by some one of the numerous "Commercial Parties" which have of late passed over the railroad, as missionaries to teach us benighted Californians how to "do" men and things. This was not because Keno had depreciated, but was owing to the "new business ideas" referred to. Stolen! Stolen! Sad story! This was the third and last of Bob's pets.

At Matlin he had a fine game rooster, the pioneer chanticleer of that region. For sheer lack of anything else to fight, one day he picked a quarrel with the cat of the period, and in return picked out both his eyes. Bob, like a philosopher—life in the wilderness begets philosophy—swallowed his sobs and a goodly portion of the rooster in the form of a pot-pie, and forthwith adopted the conquering quadruped as the reigning pet. For he has a longing for

"Something to love me,— Something to love."

Alas! At Monument in some blasting operation, the cat was blown up, losing all her "black hair"—which to her credit it may be said, was her own lose—and seven or eight of her nine lives. "Some how she never seemed herself after that," said Bob, sorrowfully; and we may readily imagine that she soon either naturally "pegged out" or in turn fell an easy prey to the more vigorous Keno, who succeeded her in Bob's affections. These incidents by no means indicate fickleness on Bob's part. Indeed, the contrary; as in each instance it is shown he loved to the last. A hankering after pets is said to be an infallible symptom of old maidenhood; but symptoms sometimes fail. Instance: Bob has the symptoms, and in very marked form, but I am satisfied, has not the complaint. He is, however, a bachelor. Quere: May there not be some symptoms common alike to both sexes at this stage. I wot of a good-looking bachelor who once took to geraniums and things, and was married in a twelvemonth. These affairs, you see, require great circumspection, coolness, caution. On the loss of Keno,

Bob S. immediately went East, to assuage his grief and to visit "the old folks." He may possibly call on some of the young folks, also. "Bundling," they say, is still in vogue in Pennsylvania, and a bundle of dimity, calico, etc., may be his next pet. He may become married ere his return, for Bob is portly, good-looking, and an adorer of the gentle sex. He has exhausted all the other excitements and sensations of life, lest, indeed, it be a parrot or a poddle. Beware of pets!

Dog and cayotte, referred to previously, call to mind the buxom maiden from Yolo's plains, who some time since entered a J street bookstore and inquired for a work called Dog and Cayote. "No such work in the store Miss," said the clerk. "But there should be, if you pretend to keep a book store," confidently responded the fair customer. Spurred by the remark, and to gratify the lady—as she was decidedly pretty—the clerk ransacked his shelves, but in vain. He then ransacked his brain for her meaning. A thought occurred to him, and coming down from his step-ladder, he asked, "Do you not mean 'Don Quixotte,' Miss?" giving it, of course, the accepted pronunciation.—"Certainly, sir," replied the lady, with quiet dignity, "that is the work I inquired for—how much is it? "Ah! permit me," said the clerk, in his confusion; He was about to add—"to apologize"—but the lady, too quick for him, accepted the proffered volume, as also the implied apology, and said. "Ah, thank you," most sweetly, and with a "good morning, sir" and a polite bow, left the bewildered clerk to figure up the exact amount of profit and loss on that transaction. This, again suggests an incident of quite recent occurrence, so recent, indeed, that answers to letters of inquiry concerning details, have not yet been received from a certain California town—a railroad town," at that. A lady, residing in a mountain home, wrote to a female acquaintance in Sacramento inclosing the requisite funds, and requesting her to purchase for the writer a number of specified articles of "Ah Bologna jewelry."—The lady receiving the commission thought that possibly her mountain friend might have intended to specify abelone shell jewelry, but not feeling sufficiently sure to warrant purchasing, has written back for further instructions While awaiting which, I sign myself, Yours, O'L

First—To think that the more a man eats the fatter and stronger he will become.

Second—To believe that the more hours children study at school the faster they learn.

Third—To conclude that if exercise is good for the health, the more violent and exhausting it is the more good is done.

Fourth—to imagine that every hour taken from sleep is an hour gained.

Fifth—To act on the presumption that the smallest room in the house is large enough to sleep in.

Sixth—To argue that whatever remedy causes one to feel immediately better is "good for" the system, without regard to more ulterior effects.—The "soothing syrup," for example, does not stop the cough of children, and does arrest diarrhea, only to cause a little later, alarming convulsions, or the more fatal inflamation of the brain, or water on the brain, at least, always portraits the disease.

Seventh—To commit an act which is left in itself to be prejudicial, hoping that somehow or other it may be done in your case with impunity.

Eighth—To advite another to take a remedy which you have not tried on yourself, or without making special inquire whether all the conditions are alike.

Ninth—To eat without an appetite, or continue to eat after it has been satisfied merely to gratify the taste.

Tenth—To eat a hearty supper for the pleasure experienced during the brief time it is passing down the throat, at the expense of a whole night of disturbed, sleep, and a weary waking in the morning.

Eleventh—To remove a portion of the clothing immediately after exercise, when the most stupid drayman in New York knows that if he does not put cover on his horse the moment he ceases work in winter, he will lose in a few days by pneumonia.

Twelfth—To contend that because the dirtiest children in the street, or in the highway, are hearty and healthy, therefore it is healthy to be dirty; forgetting that continuous exposure to the pure outdoor air in joyous, unrestrained activities, is such a powerful agency for health, that those who lives thus are well, in spite of rags and filth.

Thirteenth—To presume or repeat later, in life, without injury, the indiscretions, exposures, and intemperances which in the flush of youth were practiced with impunity!

Fourteenth—To believe that warm air is necessarily impure, or that pure, cold air is necessarily more healthy than the confined air of close and crowded vehicles; the latter at the most, can only cause fainting and nausea, while entering the conveyance after walking briskly, lowering a window, thus, while still, being exposed to a draft will give a cold infallibly; or an attack of pleurisy or pneumonia which will cause weeks and months of suffering, if not actual death within four days.

Fifteenth—To remember the Sabbath day" by working harder and later on Saturday than on any other day in the week, with a view to sleep late the next morning, and staying at home all day to rest, conscience being quieted by the plea of not feeling very well.—Hall's Journal of Health.

The Globe.

HUNTINGDON, PA.

Wednesday morning, Oct. 27, 1869.

WM. LEWIS, HUGH LINDSAY, } EDITORS.

The "Globe" has the largest number of readers of any other paper published in the county. Advertisers should remember this.

☞ Dad's "kraut" tub is all right—it never was in a collision that it did not get out all "sound." Can Cremer say the same of his "potato-basket?"

☞ When we get through with the evidence showing how the Orlady programme tried to and did pack several Conventions, the so-called Woods Literati will be considered a small ghost to be frightened at.

☞ John E. Lewis, Esq., and Judge John W. Johnston, are the U. S. Senators elect from Virginia. Both are represented to be men of considerable ability, and were true to the flag of the Union throughout the war.

☞ The total official vote in this State for Governor and Supreme Judge is as follows: Geary 290,552, Packer 285,956; Geary's majority 4,596: Williams 291,366, Pershing 282,575; Williams' majority 8,791.

☞ Andy Johnson was a candidate before the Tennessee Legislature for U. S. Senator. He was defeated after a warm contest. He had 51 votes—Mr. Henry Cooper had 55 votes. Mr. Cooper is one of the oldest lawyers in Tennessee, and an able man.

☞ Jackson Lamberson, defeated by the guerrillas for County Commissioner, was a soldier for three or four years, and had four brothers with him. He was objectionable to the guerrillas because he did not belong to the Orlady "ring," and would not work up to their programme.

☞ The cry of some of the fast Democracy is for younger and more energetic leaders, like Billy Wallace—That's rich. Their party is not going to destruction soon enough under the "old fogy" leaders, and they want it pushed forward faster. Indeed, we hope their wish may be realized.

☞ The Feejee Islanders desire to be annexed to the United States. Uncle Sam has already too many applications of a like nature, and if he accepts of all, wars will probably follow that would keep us continually unsettled, and make them very dear provinces.

☞ The guerilla organ tries to throw some of the "cutting" on the shoulders of Republicans who were true to the ticket. It wont do, Mr. Cremer—you and your clan took the contract to disorganize our party and help the Democrats, and you should not so soon feel ashamed of your conduct. We have got your clan just where we wanted to have it—in open day—and before you can have another opportunity to disorganize the party, you will find out that the party will be just as strong without you.

☞ If it was right for the Wharton delegates to hold a secret caucus the night before the meeting of the nominating Convention, was it wrong for the friends of any other candidate to hold a similar caucus? Of course the Wharton caucus was secret; if not, why charge Shearer with being a spy in the Wharton caucus? The guerrilla organ does not denounce its friends for holding secret caucuses—it only denounces those who will not work up to Orlady's programme.

☞ The guerrillas and Democratic office seekers will make every effort to keep the guerrilla organ in existence. The Democrats say it will pay them to have a bogus Republican paper circulated, and if it is made to pay Cremer and Orlady, they will be satisfied, as they can't expect to receive any favors from the Republican party very soon. The Republican party in every district must look out for Orlady's "programme" for next fall. He will no doubt have it ready and his tools at work early and all the time. A part of the contract with the Democrats is to elect Petrikin to the Senate if they cannot have one of their own clan nominated and supported by the Republican party.

☞ Somebody in the last guerilla organ gave the running of two trains, the one train had on board all Republicans who adhered to party nominations—the other train had on board the Democratic party, rebel sympathizers, Orlady's secret "ring" and all it could deceive, cheat and buy to help the Democrats. The trains came in collision on election day, and the regular Republican was smashed and several of its nominees were injured. At such results the guerilla organ and its clan rejoice—just as the rebel sympathizers rejoiced during the war when news was received of the defeat of the Union soldiers. Cremer and his clan will not be able to run another train off time with the same results. The guerillas are spotted in every district and they will be watched more closely hereafter by the true men of the Republican party. "Strictly confidential, burn," wont save the Orlady "ring" from exposure. The "ring" has packed conventions and committees, and tried to defeat regular nominees for years.

"Who Played Foul?"

Cremer, in his last guerrilla sheet, asks the above question. We will see. Cremer was a candidate for nomination for Prothonotary. A wounded soldier was nominated over him by the Convention. If Cremer had received the nomination, he would have defended the Convention and the ticket—but he was left out in the cold, and therefore the Convention and the ticket was not Republican. "Who Played Foul?" Cremer and his guerrilla clan They worked and voted against Republican nominees. They elected Democrats over Republican soldier nominees, and by their conduct reduced Geary's majority to less than five hundred. "Who Played Foul?" Senator Scott and his influence, into the hands of Orlady & Co. "Who Played Foul?" Brice X. Blair, postmaster at this place—an office he received from the party he helped to defeat. "Who Played Foul?" H. S. Wharton, twice elected to the Legislature by the same organization he helped to strike down. "Who Played Foul?" Orlady's whole guerrilla "ring"—and why? Simply because the nominees defeated were not willing, cringing tools to Orlady's "ring" of would-be party leaders and dictators. Who will try to keep the party defeated? The guerrillas, with the aid of their guerrilla organ, the Republican. They know their treachery to the party this fall is black enough to keep them on back seats for many years; and knowing this, they will continue to play into the hands of the Democracy, and give them help wherever they can have influence with Republicans. "Who Played Foul!" It took just such cheek as Cremer has to ask such a question.

"BLOWING" THEMSELVES.—We see in the last guerilla organ a political expose of some of the operations of the Orlady Secret "ring." A communication in that paper signed "TELL," says that H. S. Wharton, D. Black, H. G. Fisher, John Stonebraker and other Wharton delegates met at the house of said Wharton on the night previous to the Convention that nominated him for the Legislature." This, coming from the guerilla organ, and at the same time charging Mr. Shearer who was also there as acting the part of a spy, is pretty strong evidence that the "ring" was then and is now working under the Constitution of the "Literati or People's League". We want to see a few more exposures of the same sort, and we think the people of the county will have little difficulty in locating the secret political order. Henry Shearer wouldn't be sworn in by Orlady and Johnston and therefore he is now denounced as a spy. Mr. Shearer, no doubt, did succeed in pulling the wool over the eyes of Orlady & Co's secret organization as effectually as Orlady & Co. succeeded in pulling it over the eyes of Senator Scott.

The following letter will show how the "ring" master has packed Conventions and Committees. The same "programme" has been worked every fall, as letters in our posession will show:

STRICTLY PRIVATE—BURN THIS.

PETERSBURG, MAY 5, 1864.

Friend Shearer:—The candor and frankness you have manifested to me in all our intercourse, induces me to place the most implicit confidence in your fidelity and integrity. I will, therefore, unbosom myself to you as is only done to the most true and tried friends, feeling certain that not a word or thought can be exposed to the public by you.

You gave me your word that your will and pleasure is to assist me in securing the Convention in June. We have but a few weeks to work. I will depend upon you to act an important part in my programme—that is, I will assign an important work to you—I know you will be equal to it. In the first place, it will be necessary to affiliate with the governing candidates.—Mr. Clymans will want the nomination for Poor Director, the Blairs for Congress. Have Clymans to understand that you can aid him materially on account of having been in many conventions. Espouse the interests (privately to them) of the Blairs, throw yourself in their way, talk up their propects and offer your services, you can by championing their cause have them to depend upon you, in that way you will be made a delegate without opposition. The best thing you can do would be to have Clymans to run as delegate himself, along with some young man who has never been in Convention, then get Clymans to substitute you and you can instruct your young colleague. Have a couple of men from Tell who will listen to no man's council but your own. Promise to pay their expenses; do this so that it never can come out or it might do material injury. You can certainly stir up two confidential men in Tell, have men who will take your council exclusively on all questions before the convention. It would be well not to use my name amongst them. Everything depends on getting the right men elected delegates. You can get into the Convention with three young men, from Dublin and Tell, if so, the voting will be as straight as a line. Use such arguments with Clymans and Blairs as you best know will commend you to them. Sound Clymans and report to me soon. Let me know what is said about Congress, Senator, Legislature, &c.

It would be well for you to say that you do not know whether I will be a candidate, but if I am, your opinion is that I will carry the county, easily.

Let me hear from you soon. Report what is doing. In confidence, Yours, Truly, H. ORLADY.

☞ It is pretty generally conceded that the Democrats have lost their best opportunity to elect their man, and that the party had better now go to splinters.

The Repudiators.

Huntingdon was not the only county that shows by its vote that a number of Republicans were dissatisfied with the regularly nominated ticket. Now, upon this subject, we said before the election no more and no less than we are ready to say now. It is strange, surpassingly strange, that individuals calling themselves Republicans, will so far forget the duty they owe to their party, and the duty they owe to any and every member of their party when he is placed in nomination by a regular nominating convention, as to resort to all sorts of tricks, and compromises and bargains, with the opposition, in order to defeat their party nominee and elevate his political opponent. "We do it on principle," say the disaffected ones. Principle! What principle? Is it principle to claim to be a member of a party organization, and then vote and use your influence against the standard bearers of that party? Is it principle to oppose the men who represent the principles of your party, and thereby show your own inconsistency and declare the tenets of your party a lie and a deception? Principle! Of what does it consist? Does it consist in bowing the knee to the opposition—fawning at their feet, and begging them to come to your help to defeat the man or men whom your party has placed in nomination? Ah, ye sycophants! Look at your record, and see whether it is fair or foul; then take a prospective of the future and ask yourselves the question whether you are worthy even the political recognition of those whom you have deceived. Think you, the Democrats will elevate or honor you, or repose that confidence in you which your own party would have had for you, had you been less presumptuous, and fought as manfully for the ticket as you did against it? No, they will despise you; and although your own interests have been subserved in the recent overthrow of your party's prosperity, yet the men in your party whom you have deceived will know you no longer. You have dragged them into the same boat with Democrats, but they will soon leave it and let you perish on the breakers with your newly-found allies.

Dishonesty, repudiation, aristocracy and guerillaism can not find many permanent advocates among the masses of the Republican party, and the good, true and reasonable men of the party, who have been misled thus to bring defeat and disgrace upon their own standard-bearers, will rally and throw overboard all the false lights, who have posted themselves on the watch-towers as the enemy's spies.

WHO ARE THE GUERILLAS?—Webster says "Guerilla is a term applied to an irregular mode of carrying on war by the constant attacks of independent bands." Independent bands—or independent clans—or independent disorganizers—such as make up Orlady's "ring." They profess to be a part of the Republican party, but never act with it in support of all its nominess unless all its nominees are in sympathy with the clan. The "band" of which Cremer's Republican is the organ, is a guerilla faction acting independent of party nominations when any of the nominees are not of their kind. They say they are not bound by the action of the majority of the Republican party—that they can repudiate its nominees just when and as often as they please and still be party men in good standing with the Republican party. If all who aided prominently in disorganizing the Republican party in the county this fall and in the defeat of several of its nominees and the election of Democrats, are still Republicans in good standing in the party, then we must confess we have little hope of the party ever again being a successful party in the county. The party rule of supporting party nominees must be adhered to or there is no use making party nominations. A nomination by the Republican party in this county was always considered as good as an election—but it cannot be so considered any longer if the prominent guerillas of this fall are to be still recognized as leaders and dictators in the party, that they may have position and influence to repeat their disgraceful political conduct. Now that they are known—and they will be more so before long—they should be refused any political association with the party organization they have by falsehood, deception, bribery and corruption, defeated in the election of its ticket.—The deserve the fate of Andy Johnson, for they are no better. They succeeded doing in the county and district what Johnson tried to do in the States—defeat the Republican party. Who are the guerillas and traitors to the Republican party? Every true party man can easily answer.

☞ Twenty States have already ratified the Fifteenth Amendment; two, Mississippi and Texas, are required to ratify as a condition of reconstruction, and five more are certain—which will make in all twenty-seven. One more State is required. Ohio, if it has elected a Republican Legislature, will settle it; but if not, then either Georgia or Alabama, which have already established negro suffrage, may be depended on. Then will be finally settled the most troublesome question that has disturbed American almost since its formation, and which culminated in one of the bloodiest and most terrible civil wars on record.—May no other question ever arise to prove so disastrous to the peace and welfare of our citizens as has the slavery question.

☞ Minister Andy G. Curtin has recently created a sensation at the Huss banquet in Prague. He first addressed the Bohemians with gratifying success, and subsequently spoke for some time in the Russian tongue, his speech being received with the greatest enthusiasm. We are, unfortunately, not informed whether this was the result of our Minister's glowing periods, or the discovery that he could speak the language of the nation to which he was accredited. Probably both, but it is certainly gratifying to us at home to know that we have a Minister at St. Petersburg who does not require an interpreter to make himself understood. The rule has generally been heretofore that only our London envoys could dispense with the interpreters.

AN ELOPEMENT.—The usually comatose village of Allenville has been considerably astir lately over an elopement which took place September 21, the couple being from the aforesaid town. The young man, it seems, having resolved to get spliced "for better or for worse," came to Lewistown the day previous, and obtained a horse and buggy, with which he went back to Allenville about the "wee sma' hours" of the night, and, being joined by his sweet heart, both came, doubtless with glad but tremulous hearts, and were married. The fond parents of the lady are very properly indignant, and have issued the decree, "stay away now and repent at leisure;" but as this is hardly the best course to be pursued, under all the circumstances, we may reasonably hope for an ultimate reconciliation, notwithstanding such conduct on the part of the young people, and especially girls under age, is never justifiable and very rarely ends happily.—Lewistown Democrat.

The New York Mail says: "Low-necked shirts are pronounced the latest 'style' for nice young men. Let our readers imagine a sweet-looking youth, with his hair parted in the centre, with a bottle of grease poured upon it to keep the hairs in position, a brass headed cane—and a low-necked shirt. Oh, you dear little creature!"

A woman living in Water town, N Y, whose husband was lately run over by the cars and killed and who has ever since been partially insane was discovered one day last week lying upon the railroad track with the evident intention of meeting the fate of her husband Several men dragged her from the track just in time to prevent her being run over.

The new English bayonet can be used either as a saw or sword.

BUTTER.—A singular method of making butter has lately come into quite extensive use in France, based upon the observed fact, that cream is being changed into butter by being simply buried in the earth. The theory of this result is not very intelligible, tho' the fact is stated to be beyond question; and in Normandy and other parts of France it is actually prepared on a large scale in this way. The process consists in placing the cream in a linen bag of moderate thickness, which is carefully closed; then burying the bag about a foot and a half deep in the earth and allowing it to remain from twenty-four to twenty-five hours. After the expiration of this period the cream is found to become hard, and it is then broke up by means of a wooden beater into small pieces, and enough water poured upon it to wash out the buttermilk. To prevent any mixture of earth it is advisable to enclose the bag in a second one of the larger size and coarser quality. This method of making butter saves a great deal of labor, and separates the butter more perfectly than the ordinary process; and we are assured that the butter thus prepared is of most excellent quality.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Texan journal appeals to the cotton manufacturers of the world to offer a reward of $100,000 for the discovery of some means of destroying the cotton-worms.

The new Swiss settlement in Grundy county, Tenn., is flourishing. The Swiss are delighted with the climate and with the land, which they bought at fifty cents an acre.

A Wisconsin man ran into a hornet's nest in his barn, and was badly stung. In revenge he took some matches and set fire to the nest, which was destroyed together with the barn.

It is announced that the President will probably visit the South during the coming winter.

Mark Twain says of Henry Ward Beecher's farming experience, that Beecher buys a pig for $1,50, fattens him with $40 worth of corn and then sells him for $9. He makes money too, for he expects to lose on the corn anyhow, whilst he clears $7,50 on the pig.—In planting, Mr. Beecher's great trouble is that when he puts in a field of melons they will come up pumpkins, whilst his sweet potatoe crop always turns out to be the "infernalest carrots."

The County Fair.

Mr. Editor:—I went to the Fair—I did. Nearly everybody went. However, it was only by accident that I was at the Fair. I had business at Huntingdon on Thursday, the 7th day of October. So had nearly everybody else. It was strange that they should all have business on the same day at the same place; and still more strange, nobody was going to the fair. They all said the fair wouldn't be worth any thing, and they wouldn't give a snap to see it, and they wouldn't go. I thought so too. I only saw one man who was going to the fair, and he was going to see his cousin, who was to be a judge of statuary and the fine arts, (class 3627,) and of course he would be there.

I wasn't going to the fair, but then I just went down to look over the fence, and when I got there I just thought I might as well go in and take a peep at things, and so I went in. I went in on Tom Smith's family ticket, and it didn't cost me anything. Family tickets are a great institution. You can just go in an out all day on them, and you can take any one along you please. Tom Smith and his wife and his nine children, and his father and mother, and his Aunt Jemima and his wife's cousin from Ohio, all went in on the strength of one family ticket; and then he came out and took in me and Sam Blake and two other fellows that I didn't know—all for one dollar!—Wasn't that cheap?

And here, true as you live, I found that everybody that had come to Huntingdon on business was at the fair.—They all said they had got through with their business and that they had just come to the fair for past time—had come in on family tickets. And they were all so glad they had come; the fair was so grand. Such stately pumpkins, such charming cabbages, such magnificent sweet potatoes, such superb apples, such delicious turnips, such exquisite peach blow potatoes, and such inviting broad, cakes and pies (albeit wrapped up so that the vulgar eye might not gaze upon them—but I knew they were there because the card said so;) and such enchanting honey, and such attractive cans of fruit; and the live stock, dear me! such symmetrical cows, such dazzling hogs, such gorgeous horses, and such delightful chickens. And such delicate fancy work, such sublime quilts, such handsome shell work, such curious boquets, such beautiful flowers, such splendid window sashes, such picturesque paintings, and the statuary, oh, my! It were well worth a trip across the Atlantic to see all these.

There were a great many people at the fair. Everybody was on the move. If you wanted to find anybody, you couldn't find him at all; but if there was anybody that you didn't want to find you were sure to meet him every two minutes. There was a ring for equestrian gyrations. Several men and boys were continually driving around this ring in gigs and buggies. No doubt they felt big. They looked as if they did. But I don't think their tired nags felt so comfortable dragging them through the mud. I didn't envy the drivers much. I think a man can sleep better when he has an approving conscience.

But, Mr. Editor, I do not wish to tire your patience in the recital of the many things and people which were to be seen at this fair. I have no doubt some of the things on exhibition drew premiums—say twenty five or fifty cents. There were several things about the fair which I admired, for instance: The beautiful plot of ground on which the fair was held, the facilities for entering on family tickets, the magnificent driving, the Indian Root Doctor, the pretty girls, and last but not least, the pumpkins. I would have bought the largest one for a pocket piece, if my pocket had been large enough to have contained it.

DIED,

In this place, on the 18th inst., after a brief but painful illness, SAMUEL CONRAD, infant son of George and Susan J. Havens, aged one week and three days.

He's gone, the spotless soul is gone,
Triumphant to his place above;
The prison walls are broken down;
The angels spread his swift remove,
And, shouting, on their wings he flies
And gains his rest in Paradise.

Near Warriorsmark, Oct. 8th, 1869, MIRIAM A. wife of Wm. Burket, aged 33 years. She was a member of the Methodist church for over 20 years.

"She sleeps in Jesus; happy thought;
Has reached at last the rest she sought;
From storms without and fears within,
She rests secure from pain and sin.

"Long she had walked life's weary way,
And wondered at his lengthened day;
At last a light shone in her room,
And Jesus whispered, 'Child come home.'"

Thanksgiving Day.

Washington, Oct. 8.—By the President of the United States of America:

A PROCLAMATION.

The year which is drawing to a close has been free from pestilence; health has prevailed throughout the land; abundant crops reward the labors of the husbandman; commerce and manufactures have successfully prosecuted their peaceful paths; the mines and forests have yielded liberally; the nation has increased in wealth, and in strength; peace has prevailed and its blessings have advanced every interest of the people in every part of the Union; harmony and fraternal interest restored are obliterating the marks of past conflict and estrangement, burdens have been lightened, means have been increased, civil and religious liberty are secured to every inhabitant of this land, whose soil is trod by none but freemen. It becomes a people thus favored to make acknowledgment to the Supreme Author from whom such blessings flow, of their gratitude and their dependence, to render praise and thanksgiving for the same, and devoutly to implore a continuance of God's mercies.

Therefore, I, Ulysses S. Grant, President of the United States, do recommend that Thursday, the 18th of November next, be observed as a day of thanksgiving and of praise and prayer to Almighty God, the Creator and Ruler of the universe. And I do further recommend to all the people of the United States to assemble on that day in their accustomed places of public worship, and to unite in the homage and praise due to the bountiful Father of all mercies, and in fervent prayer for the continuance of the manifold blessings He has vouchsafed to us as a people.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed, this 5th day of October, A. D. 1869, and of the independence of the United States of America the ninety-fourth.

By the President: U. S. GRANT.
HAMILTON FISH, Secretary of State.

HURRYGRAPHS.

The latest accounts about the financial condition of Turkey are deplorable. The employees of the Government have not been paid for the last nine months. Failures are every day occurrences, and the merchants are in despair. The soldiery in the interior are starving, and in the midst of all this desolation the Porte has appropriated fifteen million francs for the entertainment of Eugenie.

Until very recently all the ice used in San Francisco and the towns of the Sacramento Valley was supplied at high prices by the Sitka Ice Company, which obtained its supplies in Alaska. A company has however, been formed in Sacramento to obtain ice from a locality about three quarters of a mile South of the Pacific Railroad, and a fall in the old prices is confidently looked for.

The destruction of oysters at Providence, by the late gale was very great. Of one bed of twelve thousand bushels, it is estimated that fully half were destroyed.

An Indiana town boasts of a giant who has by his great size vanquished the ague. That embarrassing affliction attacked him recently, and worked four days to shake him all over, but failed and left in disgust.

During the past year the trade of St. Paul has exceeded half a million dollars in value. Sixteen hundred thousand muskrat skins were one item of the account. Not much need of any night-blooming cereus in that neighborhood.

The recent Georgia Editorial Convention must have been a nice party. One of the editors lost his hat, whereupon his companions laughed at him. He silenced them with the remark that they would have lost their hats too had they not been heavily weighed with bricks.

Washington Irving fell in love—this was years ago—with Rebecca Gratz, a beautiful Jewess of Philadelphia, but as Washington ate pork, she refused to marry him. This is another reason, and just published, why Washington Irving never married. Surely the resurrectionists will bring up the truth, or something else, after a while.

The South is rapidly getting its eyes open. The Richmond Enquirer has learned that the immediate mission of the Americans is to subdue this continent, to develop it, and to spread civilization over it; and that it was because the South, by its policy of stagnation, sought to go on in the teeth of this providential purpose that it was compelled to fall in the late war.

Thirteen States were represented in the display of hogs at the St. Louis Fair, the number entered being 1,060.

An ingenious suicide in Wisconsin bent down a sapling, hitched himself to it by a rope about his neck, and let it spring.

J. Van Horn, a farmer of Polk co., Iowa, raised a squash six feet eight inches round, and weighing one hundred and sixty-four pounds.

During the recent storm the Namaha river, in the vicinity of Seneca, Mo., is reported to have risen at the rate of ten feet an hour.

A letter from Brussels announces that a M. Landuran has invented an apparatus by which he is able to extract fire damp or any other vicious air from mines.

Rev. Daniel Clark, pastor of the Plainville, Will county, Ill., Presbyterian Church, was drowned, the other day, while attempting to cross a stream in that county.

The old building in Richmond, known all over the United States as Libby Prison, has recently been leased and is now occupied by parties engaged in grinding sumac and bones.

It is proposed to cut a canal from the five lakes in South Carolina, forming the head waters of the Ashley river, to the navigable portion of the river, in order to secure easy transportation for the phosphates recently discovered there.

McGUIRE'S
SPANISH HAIR DRESSER

FOR PROMOTING THE GROWTH, BEAUTIFYING THE HAIR,

And rendering it dark and glossy. No other compound possesses the peculiar properties which so exactly suit the various conditions of the human hair. The use of this oil as a hair dresser has been universal in every section of the country in the Spanish Main for centuries.—No preparation or art could give that elegant luxuriance and adaptation of hair which have so often been the admiration of travelers in Spain. This oil is highly and delicately perfumed, forming an article unrivaled in excellence and upon which the Spanish people for many years have set its seal of enduring approval.

McGUIRE'S
Mexican Wild Flowers Shampoo Lotion

For removing dandruff and scurf from the head, whitening and perfuming the skin. This article is entirely different from anything of the kind ever offered in this country and is warranted free from all poisonous substances. This valuable lotion was used by the Emperor Maximilian, and Empress Carlotta of Mexico, and universally used by Mexicans for three hundred years. As a wash for the head—it is cooling, cleansing and refreshing.—When thus used it at once relieves headache.

McGUIRE'S
WILD FLOWERS FOR THE TEETH.

All those who are in favor of white teeth and a pleasant and perfumed breath, should at once use McGuire's Wild Flowers for the Teeth. All these preparations are put up in the most elegant and ornamental manner. We make no exception in saying that they are an ornament to a lady's toilet table, and none complete without them. Warranted satisfactory or money refunded. Dealers will bear this in mind. Sold by all respectable Druggists in the United States and Canadas. Address orders to

BAUGH'S
RAW BONE
SUPER-PHOSPHATE OF LIME.

STANDARD WARRANTED.

We offer to Farmers, the present fall season, BAUGH'S RAW BONE SUPER PHOSPHATE OF LIME as being highly improved.
Baugh's Raw Bone Super Phosphate is, as its name indicates, prepared by dissolving Raw Bones in Oil of Vitriol—that is, bones that have not been deprived of their organic matter—the grease and glue—by burning or boiling. It, therefore, presents to the use of the farmer all the valuable properties of Raw Bones in a highly concentrated form—rendering it at once quick in action and very permanent.
☞ Farmers are recommended to purchase of the dealer located in their neighborhood. In sections where no dealer is yet established, the PHOSPHATE may be procured directly from the undersigned.

The large and increasing sales of these

We were satisfied that they would be appreciated here as elsewhere, and that the quality of the advantages offered to wearers of our beautiful lenses, viz.: the ease and comfort, the accurate and unchangeable adjustment of the sight, and the brilliant assistance they give in all cases, were in themselves so apparent on trial, that the result could not be otherwise than a law in the almost general adoption of our CELEBRATED PERFECTED SPECTACLES by the residents of the locality
With a full knowledge of the value of the assertion, we claim that they are the most perfect optical aids ever manufactured. To those needing Spectacles, we afford at all times an opportunity of procuring the best and most desirable.
